Enter Program Mission:

The MS degree in Marital and Family Therapy is designed to give students a broad academic background as well as professional practice for working with individuals, couples, and families in a variety of settings. These include, but are not limited to, medical, legal, educational, community mental health, managed care, church settings and private practice. Education and training are offered with the purpose of preparing students to be effective with a variety of mental health problems such as co-occurring disorders, serious emotional disorders, crisis care, chronic and/or serious mental illness, child and elder abuse, emancipation issues, and homelessness and complex relational issues. Great care is taken to include training that addresses issues of cross-cultural awareness, diversity, law and ethics, systemic approaches to treatment along with other evidence-based modalities, life-span development, family and community systems, community integration for support and resources, collaborative case coordination, and a focus on elimination of discrimination and stigma of mental illness.

Mission and Philosophy:

The program's mission is to prepare practitioners who will promote the health, hope, healing and well-being of diverse individuals, couples, families, and communities. The master's mission, vision and values reflect the mission, vision and values of the University and Department.

Vision:

The program's vision is congruent with the university and department mission and states that "MFT students will learn how to 'make diverse families whole'. Families include different family structures such as single parent, families headed by grandparents, bi-racial couples, families with special needs. This vision supports the notion that transforming relationships in diverse families is essential. Diversity being a key concept in training master's students to work effectively with diverse populations,

Provide narrative description of Program Mission alignment with Institutional Mission:

The master's program is consistent with Loma Linda University's vision of transforming lives through whole person health care. The program accomplishes this vision by preparing marital and family therapists who will promote the health and well-being of diverse individuals, families, and communities. The educational outcomes for the MS program in marital and family therapy reflect an integration of the mission and values of Loma Linda University with professional practice in marital and family therapy from a systems/relational perspective. The educational outcomes of the program have three dimensions: program outcomes, student learning outcomes, and faculty outcomes.
